Re Item III

Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

Claims 19-28 relate to subject-matter considered by this Authority to be covered by the provisions of Rule 67.1(iv) PCT. Consequently, no opinion will be formulated with respect to the industrial applicability of the subject-matter of these claims (Article 34(4)(a)(I) PCT).

Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

Reference is made to the following documents:

D1: WO-A-0077032

Novelty (Art 33(2) PCT)

D1 discloses spermine:peptide based surfactants (see D1, claim 1) for use in facilitating transfection of DNA or RNA into cells. The compounds of D1 and the present application differ structurally in the branching pattern of the amino acid backbone. Present claims 1-30 are therefore novel over D1.

Inventive Step (Art 33(3) PCT)

The problem underlying the current application is the provision of alternative low-toxicity gemini surfacants to facilitate the effective transfer of polynucleotides into cells (page 2, lines 9-12). The proposed solution, the compounds of the current invention, is not considered obvious because there is no incentive present in the prior art which would lead the skilled man to make the neccessary structural changes to said prior art compounds to arrive at the present invention. Claims 1-30 are therefore considered inventive.
